Elevate project background

The HCM upgrade is part of a larger, two-year project, called Elevate, which will greatly improve CU's finance and human resources systems. When the systems launch in November 2015, system users will have access to new online features, functions and enhancements to help employees consolidate tasks and find support.

CU's current HRMS and Finance systems have not been updated in several years. As a result, we have missed out on functionalities that will help the university be more effective. This upgrade brings systems up to date and lays the foundation for future enhancements.

To assure the upgraded systems best serve employees' needs, campus users will be asked to give feedback during various stages of the process. These groups will be critical to a successful implementation.
