Known Issues

CU: Information Security Awareness Course

If you have completed the CU: Information Security Awareness course, but are still getting reminder/overdue notice emails, refer to the following steps below:

- If you can see your completion in the portal ^[3], you are compliant with the course, and no further action is required on your part. There may be several reasons why Skillssoft is still sending reminders, and we'll investigate them and send you an update. Please, disregard the reminder/overdue notice emails until we reply to your email.
- If you do not see your completion in the portal, we will investigate the reason why and send you an update. No further action is required on your part until we reply to your email.

Issues Accessing the Course

If you have issues accessing the course from the link in the reminder/overdue notice email:

1. Log into your employee portal ^[4] at my.cu.edu.
2. In the CU Resources area, select Training from the dropdown menu and select the Skillsoft tile.
3. Search for the course using the search box at the top right side of the screen.

If you cannot access the employee portal, contact your IT department, and tell them that your employee portal is not set up correctly. Make sure to tell them that it's a portal issue, not a Skillssoft issue, which will route your ticket to the correct resource.

Issues Completing the Course

If you have issues completing the course:

1. Clear your cache ^[5]

- , open a new browser page, and launch Skillsoft
 - We recommend Google Chrome when using Skillsoft.
2. Search for the course and launch it from the Library, not the transcripts.
3. Click Restart at the bottom of the course window. (Do not click Resume.)
4. Click Next until you reach the slide where you experienced an issue

If these steps do not work, use an incognito page. If you need additional support, ELD can complete these steps with you.

Who Needs to Complete the Course

Any active employee currently paid by the university must complete the course. Retirees with active CU emails or past employees not currently working for CU might still receive reminders/overdue notices from Skillsoft, but they do not need to complete the course. We will remove you from the list and send you an update.
