Why work at CU?

The University of Colorado has been a leader in higher education and research in the Rocky Mountain region for more than 135 years. Founders laid the red-brick cornerstone of Old Main, the university's first building in Boulder in 1876, the same year Colorado joined the union and the nation marked its centennial.

Since then, CU has evolved into a dynamic network of four campuses, including one of the newest biomedical and health care centers in the world. Today, the CU legacy for academic excellence, innovation and discovery continues at the University of Colorado Boulder, the University of Colorado Colorado Springs, the University of Colorado Denver and the University of Colorado Anschutz Medical Campus.

Equal Employment Opportunity: The University of Colorado is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to building a diverse and inclusive workforce. We encourage applications from all qualified individuals, including veterans, regardless of gender, race, ethnicity or disability.

Background Investigations: The University of Colorado is committed to providing a safe, secure and productive learning, living and working community. To achieve this goal, we conduct background investigations for all final applicants being considered for employment. Background investigations include a criminal history record check, an Excluded Parties List check, and, when appropriate, a financial record check and/or a motor vehicle history.

E-Verify Program: The University of Colorado is a Federal Contract E-Verify employer, but only employees hired into a position funded by a federal contract with the FAR E-Verify clause will be verified through the E-Verify program. In that case, we will provide the Social Security Administration and, if necessary, the Department of Homeland Security with information from each new employee's Form I-9 to confirm work authorization.

For purposes of employment, using F-1 STEM OPT employment authorization through Student and Exchange Visitor Program and U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services. However, the university is NOT considered to be an E-Verify employer since not all new university employees are verified through the E-Verify program.
