155	11/7/2025	Article 6: University and Classified Staff	The addition of the Housestaff Association seems to be the Board of Regents entering into a partnership agreement with an outside, unionized organization written as a definition instead of an intentional partnership with collective bargaining. In contrast to existing definitions, the faculty council and staff council are internal organizations, non-membership based who represent faculty and staff. The Housestaff Association is looking to have full collective bargaining (stated on their website) and seems that this recognition needs detailed more in a Regent Law/Policy than hidden in a definition. Also, the justification does not contain any fiscal review. Entering into collective bargaining will be expensive for the system office, as well as the campus departments to support the Board of Regents. This needs to be transparent for any new personnel that would need to be added in departments, HR, University Counsel, etc.	Staff	CU AMC
