Introduction

In November 2020, Colorado voters approved the creation of the Family and Medical Leave Insurance (FAMLI) program by passing Proposition 118. FAMLI aims to ensure that Coloradans don't have to choose between earning a paycheck or caring for themselves or their family in a time of need.

The University of Colorado supports its valuable employee population with an approved private plan that meets (exceeds) the requirements of the state's insurance program. The university was approved for the CU FAMLI private plan in May of 2023. The CU FAMLI program began offering leave payments for eligible employees in January of 2024.

CU FAMLI provides all eligible employees a portion of their weekly salary for up to 12 weeks of leave to care for themselves or a family member, with additional leave for special circumstances related to pregnancy/maternity and parental leave.

Eligibility

Review eligibility requirements prior to applying for CU FAMLI.

Eligible Employees

All employees who live in Colorado are eligible for CU FAMLI. This includes faculty, staff, GMEs, student employees, and graduate students on appointment.

All eligible employees:

- are eligible for CU FAMLI salary benefit on the first day of employment
- receive CU FAMLI job protection after 180 days of employment
- are allowed 12 weeks of partial wage replacement through CU FAMLI every 12-month period based on a measure forward period
 - with the measure forward method, the 12-month period for calculating FAMLI leave begins on the first day the employee takes FAMLI leave

Eligible Leave

There are various reasons that constitute an eligible leave. CU FAMLI is available for:

- caring for a new child during the first year after the birth, adoption, or foster care placement of that child
- caring for a family member with a serious health condition
- caring for your own serious health condition
- making arrangements for a family member's military deployment
- obtaining safe housing, care, and/or legal assistance in response to intimate partner violence, stalking, sexual assault, or sexual abuse

Employees should be aware of additional leave benefits and special circumstances related to FAMLI:

- Employees who experience complications during pregnancy and childbirth may qualify for an additional four weeks of FAMLI leave (16 weeks total) if their medical provider is able to demonstrate that a serious health condition was caused by the complications. The provider will need to confirm through narrative on the medical certification that one or more of the following is true:

- The patient is experiencing a complication related to the pregnancy or childbirth that caused a serious health condition.
 - The patient experienced a pregnancy loss that caused a serious health condition.
 - The serious health condition warrants more time off than a typical pregnancy or routine childbirth or C-section.
- Employees who are the parents of a newborn admitted to a Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU) or Pediatric Intensive Care Unit (PICU) may qualify for an additional 12 weeks of FMLI leave (24 weeks total).
 - Newborn is defined as the first 28 days of life (sources: American Academy of Pediatrics and World Health Organization clinical guidelines).
 - Employees will be required to submit documentation that:
 - confirms the infant's admission to a neonatal or pediatric intensive care unit; and
 - establishes parental status or in loco parentis status, which may include but is not limited to neonatal intensive care unit admission forms listing the claimant, a birth certificate, records from a health care provider who provided care during the birth or recovery, other vital records verifying parenthood, or a signed written statement attesting to in loco parentis status.
 - NICU Leave is available only for the duration that the infant remains admitted to a neonatal or pediatric intensive care unit.
 - Failure to provide timely documentation of discharge or continuing treatment may result in a retroactive denial of the claim for neonatal/pediatric care leave.
 - Leave is granted per birth event, not per child. In cases of multiple births (e.g., twins), the maximum entitlement is 12 weeks total, and the entitlement is capped at the maximum duration of admission.
- Understanding that families are unique, CU will determine familial relationships by looking at the totality of the circumstances, including but not limited to:
 - shared financial responsibilities
 - emergency contact designations
 - expectation of care created by the relationship
 - cohabitation and geographical proximity
 - eligible CU FMLI reasons

Premiums

All employees who work and live in Colorado and earn wages through CU's payroll will pay the 0.25% employee premium. This premium is an after-tax deduction from your paycheck.

CU Graduate Medical Education (GME) residents/fellows are considered employees and are subject to the premium and CU FMLI leave benefits.

Benefit Calculation

The payment calculations for the weekly CU FMLI benefits are dependent on the employee's average weekly wages. CU FMLI pays up to $1,448.02 per week to eligible employees on approved leave.

Weekly Wage	Weekly Benefit	Maximum Annual Benefit	Percent of Weekly Wage
$500	$450	$5,400	90%
$1,000	$794	$9,531	79%
$1,500	$1,044	$12,531	70%
$2,000	$1,294	$15,531	65%
$3,000+	$1,324	$15,890	44%

Important benefit considerations:

- Benefit calculations are determined and awarded based on an employee's regular work schedule at the time they apply for FMLI. If an employee's regular work schedule changes during their leave period, benefit adjustments will be made accordingly.
- If an employee is approved for consecutive/continuous FMLI leave and is subsequently separated from employment at the university, the pre-approved FMLI benefit will not be impacted.
- If an employee is approved for intermittent or reduced schedule FMLI leave and is subsequently separated from employment at the university, the FMLI benefit will terminate upon unemployment or change in employment.
- For purposes of this section, an individual becomes unemployed if they are terminated, they resign, or no work is available to them.
- FMLI payments made to employees by CU are exempt from all retirement plan contributions, mandatory and voluntary. Any paid parental leave, sick and vacation leave used to supplement FMLI will be subject to normal retirement contributions. Employees should note that this may impact their available retirement funds and/or their PERA pension calculations, if applicable, and are encouraged to consult with PERA and the CU Benefits team prior to utilizing the FMLI benefit.
- Employees receiving FMLI payments can anticipate up to a 5% variance in gross pay, and their net pay may be higher or lower than previous months. Several factors may cause fluctuations including:
 - Retirement contributions are not taken out of the FMLI portion of employee wages.

- The FAML I wage replacement benefit calculation requires rounding of decimals to pay employees on their paycheck. This rounding may impact actual dollars paid.
- An employee did not have any or enough supplemental paid leave entered, and their check only reflects their FAML I benefit amount.

Application Process

To apply for CU FAML I leave, employees must complete a leave request through the Employee Self-Service (ESS) portal and provide all required documentation. Once the application is received, Employee Services will process the application, notify the employee of approval status and guide them through their entire leave.

Access to ESS for FAML I leave requests is located in the employee portal.

1. Login to employee portal (<https://my.cu.edu/>).
2. Select Forms from the CU Resources Home dropdown menu.
3. Select the Collaborative HR Services tile.
4. Select the CU Leave Benefits tile.
5. Select the Leave Self-Service tile.
6. Select Request a New Case.

The Employee Services leave team will reach out to the employee to discuss eligibility and next steps within five business days. Supervisors and designated department HR contacts will also receive notification of the leave request.

Employees should apply and notify their supervisor at least 30 days prior to the start of their leave or as soon as possible if 30 days advance notice is not possible.

At the latest, applications may be submitted up to 30 days after the leave has begun. If the University receives an application after 30 days, but before 90 days, the University will consider the application if it includes evidence establishing good cause for the employee's failure to submit the application within 30 days. The University will deny any application submitted after 90 days as untimely.

FAML I is an optional benefit. Employees may revoke their FAML I election at any time and decline to use the FAML I wage replacement benefit by contacting their case manager at leave@cu.edu. If the request is submitted by the 10th of the month, the revocation can be applied up to one month retroactively. If the request is submitted after the 10th of the month, the revocation will be applied to the current month and all future months moving forward. No exceptions will be made to this timeline if the employee has willingly elected to use the FAML I benefit.

Medical Certification

CU FAML I leave applications will require a medical certification (or similar) for approval.

Medical provider required: A medical provider is required to fill out a medical certification for CU FAML I to be approved.

Confidential: The medical certifications will only be reviewed by the ES Leave Team and in coordination with campus ADA offices. All CU FAML I documentation is held outside of personnel files and is considered highly confidential.

Fitness to Return Certifications: Employees who have been approved for consecutive/continuous leave due to their own serious health condition will be required to provide a certification of fitness for duty form signed by their health care provider prior to returning to work from their approved leave period.

Intermittent Leave Reporting Requirements

While on approved intermittent leave, employees are required to submit leave requests using the self-service portal to help ensure accurate FAML I tracking and pay. Employees must report leave within the designated timeframe based on their pay schedule:

- Employees paid monthly must report intermittent leave within 30 days after the leave has occurred.
- Employees paid biweekly must report intermittent leave within 14 days after the leave has occurred.

Failure to report intermittent leave within the required timeframe may result in denial of the leave request. In such cases, the leave will be subject to department policies and/or supervisor approval and an employee may be required to use their sick, vacation, or other leave accruals.

If an employee is unable to report their leave in the self-service portal within the required timeframe, other options may exist:

- The employee can email their leave time to their case manager.
- The employee can call their case manager to report their time.
- The employee's supervisor or department HR contact can report the leave time in the self-service portal or to the case manager on the employee's behalf.

If an employee does not report their leave within the required timeframe, the Leave Team may still approve the request at its discretion if there is a justifiable reason for the delay. Employees are strongly encouraged to communicate with their case manager in these circumstances as early as possible.

Appeal Process

Per the University of Colorado FAMLl plan, an employee may appeal the following events:

- failure to issue a decision on the application for plan benefits within 2 weeks of receiving a completed application
- an adverse determination of a claim for plan benefits
- failure to pay the full claim approved
- closure of a claim based on the determination that claim was not properly filed
- disqualification from plan benefits
- identification and/or collection of an overpayment

To appeal, employees must complete an appeals form found in the employee portal within 30 calendar days of the receipt of notice of an appealable event.

1. Login to employee portal (<https://my.cu.edu/>).
2. Select Forms from the CU Resources Home dropdown menu.
3. Select the Collaborative HR Services tile.
4. Select the CU leave benefits tile.
5. Select the CU FAMLl Appeal Form tile.
6. Complete the secure unity form.

Employees will receive a confirmation email once their application has been successfully submitted. The Employee Services (ES) Leave Team will reach out to the employee to discuss next steps.

Appeals may be filed with the University or the Colorado FAMLl Division. The Division encourages employees to file a first appeal with the University using the steps noted above as the most efficient means of correcting administrative errors.

Employees may appeal the decision of the University to the Division or may submit an initial appeal directly to the Division using the Division's "Appeal Request Form" which must be submitted to the Division within 49 days of the University issuing its claim decision or decision on appeal. Information regarding how to file an appeal with the Division can be found on the FAMLl website.

CU FAMLl and Other Leave

CU FAMLl may either run concurrently or in conjunction with other leave programs.

Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA)

FMLA is a federal program that provides eligible employees with unpaid job-protected leave for 12 weeks per 12-month period. FMLA will run concurrently with CU FAMLl when the need for leave meets the FMLA requirements.

CU Parental Leave

Parental Leave is a CU policy that provides specific populations with leave and compensation options during the first year after the birth, foster care placement, guardianship, or adoption of a child. Parental Leave runs concurrently with FMLI and FMLA and is subject to campus-specific policies.

Short-term Disability (STD) and Long-term Disability (LTD)

Short- and long-term disability offer compensation for employees on a qualifying leave of absence. If enrolled in and approved for disability insurance, it will run concurrently with FMLI and FMLA. Visit the CU Disability website (www.cu.edu/node/153136) to learn more.

Vacation and Sick Time Leave

Vacation and Sick Leave is accrued through employment for eligible employees. This leave can be used in conjunction with CU FMLI, FMLA and PPL as the employee desires. Visit the CU Vacation and Sick Time Leave website (www.cu.edu/node/285450) to learn more.

On-the-Job Injury (OJI)

OJI and/or workers' compensation benefits do not run concurrently with FMLI. OJI will continue to be administered through the employee's campus and coordination with the leave team will occur if FMLA is needed.

Out-of-State Employees

Employees who live and work outside the State of Colorado should note that they are likely not eligible for CU FMLI, but that their state may have applicable paid leave laws for which they are eligible. All requests for other state-paid leave should be made directly to the applicable state.
