Board of Regents

The Board of Regents holds ultimate responsibility for all decisions about CU. All of Colorado's Regents are elected, with seven regents representing each of Colorado's congressional districts and two members-at-large.

Departments reporting directly to the Board of Regents:

Internal Audit

The Department of Internal Audit provides independent, objective assurance and consulting activity designed to add value and improve the university's operations.

Treasury

The Treasurer's Office has a dual report to the Board of Regents and the Vice President for Budget and Finance and is responsible for overall cash management, debt management and property management. It provides support and assistance to the campuses on financing strategies, real estate issues, banking relationships, and other investment-related issues.
