Substantial Presence Test

If the individual is present in the U.S. for at least 31 days during the current tax year and the final sum of countable days in the United States equals 183 or more, the individual is considered a resident for U.S. tax purposes for the current tax year. Residents for tax purposes are taxed the same as U.S. citizens and permanent residents.

If the individual is in F-1 or J-1 student status, he/she is exempt from the Substantial Presence Test for five tax years in a lifetime. If the individual is in J-1 non-student status, he/she is generally exempt from the Substantial Presence Test for two of the last six tax years. For the years an individual is exempt from counting days toward the Substantial Presence Test, a zero should be entered below. All immigration statuses, other than F,J,Q or M, are not exempt from the Substantial Presence Test.
