

Entering Job Data changes by the 10th of the month prevents costly hardship to employees <sup>[1]</sup>

Last-minute Job Data entries made prior to the 5 p.m. deadline for monthly payroll uploads negatively affect employees' benefits. Avoid this by making these entries in a timely manner.

Submit Job Data entries by the 10th of every month

The payroll calendar provides a 5 p.m. deadline for uploads of monthly payrolls. Please remember this is not a deadline for Job Data entries. The system does not automatically make the necessary benefit enrollment changes in time for payroll. This is a manual process, requiring time for completion.

Due to the manual nature of this procedure, our teams are unable to process the high volume of Job Data entries made in the few days prior to the payroll calendar deadline. This results in missed deductions and deductions taken in error from employees' payroll. Frequently, these deduction errors involve the 401(a) or PERA and cause a financial burden for employees when missed contributions are required to be repaid in subsequent months. In some cases, your department will be charged for the employee portion of missed retirement plan contributions.

Submitting Job Data entries by the 10th of the month gives our teams time to ensure accurate benefits enrollment or termination for that month's payroll. It also assists our business partners in providing more accurate deadlines and reporting, and reduces the number of corrections departments need to make. Most importantly, it ensures employees do not have to pay for accumulated months of benefits charges from their next paycheck, or risk being overcharged for benefits upon termination or reduction of hours.
