

Before summer conferences begin, let the International Tax Office guide you through tax considerations <sup>[1]</sup>

May 4, 2018 by Employee Services <sup>[2]</sup>

This summer, visitors from all over the world will come together at the University of Colorado for conferences, symposiums and seminars to share ideas and learn. The International Tax Office is here to help you navigate important tax considerations as you make travel arrangements.

When planning for your guests, remember that international visitors are subject to immigration and tax restrictions when receiving payments, including travel reimbursements. We're here to explain these limitations, clarify allowable expenses and determine which payments are subject to federal tax withholding.

Have questions or need additional information? Please contact us <sup>[3]</sup> in advance of your guest's arrival and review the International AP Payment Matrix <sup>[4]</sup> for general information at a glance.
