New to UIS

Autumn Felty	10/27/25	Data Governance Enablement Manager	For the past 14 years, Autumn has built and supported data governance programs across government, nonprofit and corporate environments. In her role as the data governance enablement manager, Autumn helps advance and support CU’s data governance practices in collaboration with teams across the university system. Outside of work, she enjoys spending time with her family in Norman, OK, playing trivia, attending OU basketball games, catching live music and traveling whenever possible.

			Sean comes to CU with more than 15 years' experience as an IT consultant, supporting ERP application implementations, system and application upgrades, on-premises to cloud migrations, database administration and project management. He has worked with organizations ranging from public sector clients and Fortune 500 companies to schools, universities and government boards, with a specialization in Oracle and PeopleSoft.
Saundarya (Sean) Chapagain	11/17/25	Sr. Enterprise App Admin	In his role as a senior administrator for Enterprise Applications, Sean provides daily operational support and maintenance for enterprise applications and contributes to projects and initiatives that keep systems current, stable and effective. Originally from Kathmandu, Nepal, Sean now lives in North Carolina with his family. Outside of work, he enjoys reading, singing and spending time with his two young children. He enjoys traveling to the beach and mountains and discovering new places to eat with his family.

Changes within UIS

			After 15 years at Seagate Technology, Kelly's highlights include managing affirmative action plans for all U.S. sites, supporting two Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs audits, and designing and managing a global rotational program for high-potential new hires that was later scaled into a global onboarding program.
Kelly Kim	1/1/26	Assistant Director of eRA	As the assistant director and product manager for eRA, Kelly will oversee application products and services that support research administration, partner with research stakeholders to understand their needs, manage vendor relationships, and collaborate with UIS teams on integrations and custom development with the eRA delivery team. Kelly is a rockhound who enjoys exploring the history of geology by visiting old mines and collecting fossils, crystals and river rocks. She also enjoys crafting, baking, gardening and yard work.
