Know someone who has made a difference? Nominate them for a chance to win a $10,000 donation to their nonprofit [1]

April 9, 2018 by Employee Services [2]

Know of anyone who is always giving back to their community, including yourself? If you answered yes, submit an application to TIAA Difference Maker 100 [3].

In honor of TIAA's 100th anniversary, TIAA is giving back to the community through its members. The 100 winners will receive a $10,000 donation from TIAA made in their name to the organization where the winner made a difference, equaling $1 million in donations.

Through June 12, you can nominate yourself or someone you know working at a nonprofit organization who is making a positive impact. Describe how you or your nominee are making a difference, including impacts and challenges faced. Don't forget to include either a video or photo!

To be eligible, nominees have to work for a nonprofit organization – like the University of Colorado – but the way you make a difference can be either professional or personal. Candidates do not have to be TIAA customers, but must be currently active at a nonprofit organization. The judges will consider your motivation, perseverance, creativity and impact.

Submit your or your nominee’s story to TIAA by June 12. Winners will be announced by Oct. 1.
