Announcing a New Resource Coming Soon [1]

As part of several exciting changes coming this year, the Coleman Institute will soon begin posting a regular feature on its website entitled “Expert Insights.” Incorporating both audio and video formats, this will be a regular feature hosting experts in cognitive disabilities to highlight new resources, technologies, and leaders in the field.

We plan to kick off these videos by hosting the members of our own advisory board. Example Expert Insight topics may include AI and accessibility, how to select and use assistive technology (AT), how to write using plain language, low cost/tech AT resources, and much more.

We welcome suggestions for what topics you would like to learn more about! Please send your ideas to Cathy.Bodine@cu.edu [2].

Expect to see more information about this exciting new resource later this year.
