Published on University of Colorado (https://www.cu.edu)

Join a Lunch Discussion on Teaching ABOUT Universal Design and Accessibility [1]

Do you teach a course about accessibility or Universal Design or do you include components of these topics in your courses? Or if not, are you interested in including these topics in one of your courses?

Join Howard Kramer, PI for Promoting the Integration of Universal Design into University Curricula (UDUC), to share your activities in this area or to learn about strategies and resources for addressing these topics in coursework.

The discussion will take place at about 11:45 to 12:45 pm on Thursday by the dining area on the west side of C4C, either by the windows that face the outdoor dining area or somewhere close by depending on available seating. Look for the sign that says “Teaching ABOUT Universal Design and Accessibility.” You can text or call 720-351-8668 if you have problems finding the location or emailhkramer@colorado.edu [2] if you have any questions beforehand. An RSVP would be appreciated but is not required.

Groups audience:
Colorado Learning and Teaching with Technology

Source URL:https://www.cu.edu/coltt/join-lunch-discussion-teaching-about-universal-design-and-accessibility

Links
[1] https://www.cu.edu/coltt/join-lunch-discussion-teaching-about-universal-design-and-accessibility
[2] mailto:emailhkramer@colorado.edu?subject=Universal%20Design%20and%20Accessibility%20Discussion