

Reporting and Resolutions <sup>[1]</sup>

The purpose of reporting is to ensure safety and prevent further harm, offer support resources, understand the scope of the problem, and explore resolution options. Even if an individual chooses not to move forward with or participate in a grievance process or investigation (through OERC or law enforcement), they can contact OERC for information and assistance in accessing support services such as changes to the work environment. If an individual discloses alleged misconduct to a CU employee who is a mandatory reporter or what is called a “responsible employee” (any employee who has the authority to hire, promote, discipline, evaluate, grade, formally advise, or direct faculty, staff, or students), these individuals are required to inform the OERC. While a responsible employee is required to report on behalf of others, they can decide whether to report behavior that they personally experience. ## Colorado Equal Pay for Equal Work Act

The Equal Pay for Equal Work Act, effective January 1, 2021, protects employees against pay discrimination based on sex (including gender identity) – alone or in combination with another protected class – for substantially similar work in terms of skill, effort, and responsibility, regardless of job title.

Anyone who believes they or others have been unlawfully discriminated against based on compensation can report to OERC. Supervisors and other responsible employees are required to report any discrimination they are made aware of.
