Human Asset Management: Recognition [1]

The purpose of the Human Asset Management: Recognition course is to engage participants in the following learning activities: understanding what recognition means, exploring the importance of recognition as a human need both personally and professionally, and identifying practical ways to incorporate recognition into their individual work environments.

Program Level: Basic

Prerequisites: None

Advanced Preparation: N/A

Instructional Method: Group-Live

Instructor: Normandy Roden [2]

Recommended CPE Credit: 1 Hour

Field of Study: Personnel/Human Resources

 Course Objectives:

At the end of the course, participants will be able to:

- Define recognition and its significance as a common human need and its importance in optimizing the human work environment;
- Describe the role of recognition as a motivation factor;
- Describe the role of recognition in professional development;
- Identify characteristics and components of employee recognition by managers, manager recognition by employees, and peer-to-peer recognition; and,
- Define components of a successful (formal) recognition program.

Program Policies [3]

NASBA Statement

The University of Colorado is registered with the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy (NASBA) as a sponsor of continuing professional education on the National Registry of CPE Sponsors. State boards of accountancy have final authority on the acceptance of individual courses for CPE credit. Complaints regarding registered sponsors may be submitted to the National Registry of CPE Sponsors through its website: www.learningmarket.org [4].