Personal Financial Consultations [1]

If you’ve avoided seeking financial guidance because of the expense, you’re not alone. But what if you could get personalized financial guidance without any additional cost to you?

Through your employment at CU, you’re entitled to one-on-one sessions with financial professionals from TIAA, the university’s retirement plan service provider. While the focus of these meetings is your questions related to retirement planning, they also provide an opportunity to discuss other financial issues or concerns on your mind.

Consultants don’t work on commission and won’t push products or personal agendas; they’ll work to understand your unique situation and goals and provide education and guidance tailored to your needs.

Schedule a virtual or phone session

TIAA is taking steps to ensure the safety of CU employees and their associates. In light of the impacts of the coronavirus, TIAA has converted its in-person counseling sessions to either phone or virtual counseling. Their Financial Consultants remain committed to you during these unprecedented times.

To schedule a session:

- Call 1-800-732-8353 or visit the online registration site [2]

Note: These services are included in the administrative contracts CU has with TIAA.

Have your questions answered over the phone

Have a quick question about your account or investments? Call 1-800-842-2252, 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday or 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday to speak with a financial consultant.

Give feedback

After your session, use the university's online feedback form [3] to tell us about your experience. You can submit your feedback anonymously or leave your contact information if you would like someone from CU’s Employee Services to follow up with you.
