Public Service Loan Forgiveness [1]

Managing student debt? Enroll in a Public Service Loan Forgiveness plan.

As a CU employee, you may qualify for Public Service Loan Forgiveness (PSLF) — a program that rewards college graduates who work in the public sector. CU is a 501(c)(3) not-for-profit qualifying employer. To enroll, you'll need to sign up for a qualifying repayment program. Once you make 120 qualifying payments, the federal government will relieve the remaining balance.

Act now on your PSLF request: Employee Services will not be accepting PSLF forms after 12 pm MST on Monday, October 31st.

This temporary waiver is scheduled to expire at 11:59 EST on Oct. 31, 2022. Employee Services strongly recommends that you submit your PSLF forms no later than Wednesday, Oct. 26 to ensure all forms have CU authorization by the PLSF Limited Waiver deadline.

Apply for PSLF using Savi’s Student Loan Forgiveness Tool
TIAA has joined forces with Savi, a social impact technology company, to help University of Colorado faculty, staff and their immediate families benefit from forgiveness programs like PSLF. The service helps eligible borrowers to understand their choices, lower their monthly payments, and enroll in a forgiveness program. Think of Savi as an advocate — someone who cares as much as you do about finding a good outcome.
Savi provides two service tiers to CU faculty, staff and their immediate families:

1. A free calculator to assess their student loan situation and get guidance on their options.
2. For a $60 annual fee, they can enroll in Savi’s Essential Service. Savi will administer the program’s ongoing paperwork requirements including annual reenrollment, employer certifications and filing for PSLF credits with the U.S. Department of Education.

Based on Savi’s internal measurements, Savi users saw average projected annual savings of $1,880 in 2021. Money saved is money in your pocket to use for other financial goals, whether it’s building up an emergency fund, saving more for retirement or paying off other debts.

What to expect when enrolling in PSLF using Savi

The Savi tool is free to use for CU employees. It supports you in completing the PSLF accurately and maximizing your forgiveness benefits. However, managing all the required steps has historically been challenging for borrowers.

That’s why Savi’s Essential Service helps you enroll and remain compliant with all the program rules for a $60 annual fee*, which covers:

- Generating all forms electronically and checking them prior to submission
- Tracking applications and forms with loan servicers and employers
- Providing payment and application filing reminders to ensure important deadlines are met
- Tracking the accrual of PSLF credits throughout the process to prevent surprises at the end of the repayment period

Savi has more than a 98% success rate when submitting paperwork on behalf of Savi users for the Public Service Loan Forgiveness program. Their experts keep you on track and help you through the entire process.

Here’s a snapshot of what will happen when you enroll in Savi Essential Service.

1. First, you need to enroll in Savi Essential Service.
2. Next, provide your basic information. From there, Savi handles the rest—from checking your forgiveness application for accuracy and completion all the way to submission. (Please note that any information you voluntarily provide to Savi is governed by Savi’s Privacy Policy and Terms of Service and TIAA’s Privacy Policy and Terms of Service. Your employer will not have any access or control over information you provide to Savi or TIAA.)
3. After some verifications with CU, which Savi handles, everything is sent to your loan servicer.
4. You’ll receive reminders from Savi for ongoing things you may need to do afterward, like an annual submission to the PSLF program. That way, you stay in compliance with all the requirements that go along with forgiveness programs.

Frequently Asked Questions

What is Public Service Loan Forgiveness (PSLF)?

The federal government has a program specifically for people who work for nonprofit, government or public sector employers. If you work for one of these employers, have direct loans, and make 120 monthly on-time payments while with a public service employer, you may be eligible to have your remaining federal student loan debt forgiven tax-free.

Entering into PSLF or another forgiveness program requires a commitment to see it through to the end. Switching to an income-driven repayment plan (required if you are working toward PSLF) may actually cause your student debt to increase over time, which can be problematic unless you get forgiveness at the end. If you know you will not be working full-time for a qualifying nonprofit or public sector entity for at least 120 months, then the PSLF may not be the right path for you. Individuals may want to consult their personal tax or legal adviser before making any decisions regarding the status of their student loans.

What is TIAA’s student loan solution?

TIAA has joined forces with Savi, a social impact technology company, to help CU faculty, staff and their immediate families navigate federal student loan programs. Their student loan solution will help you identify eligibility for federal income-driven repayment plans and forgiveness programs designed specifically for people who work at eligible public interest employers — that is, at a 501(c)(3) not-for-profit school, university or hospital; in government or approved governmental entities; or at a few other public interest organizations.

The Savi service is designed to make that process easier, if you are eligible and applying.

Who is Savi?
Savi was started as a social-impact public benefit company. The people behind it are student loan experts, advocates and borrowers who have been fighting for many years to improve the student loan system.

Savi realized that the more than 44 million student loan borrowers needed better and more personalized information about how to manage and repay their debt. Savi helps people navigate the valuable but complicated federal programs available to people who work in public service. TIAA has a minority ownership interest in Savi.

How can Savi help me? Is there a fee to use Savi?

As of Dec. 31, 2021, based on Savi’s internal measurements, Savi users saw average projected savings of $1,880 per year.

There are two service tiers available to borrowers.

1. A free calculator to assess their situation and get guidance on the best options available.
2. For a $60 annual fee, you can enroll in Savi’s Essential service. Savi will administer the program’s ongoing paperwork requirements including annual reenrollment, employer certifications, and filing for PSLF credits with the U.S. Department of Education. This service helps borrowers avoid common and not-so-common errors and to stay in compliance with exacting rules.

What do I need to get started with Savi?

Go to TIAA.org/cu/student and follow the path to explore your federal forgiveness options. You’ll need three things to use Savi effectively:

1. Your Social Security number (format: 123-45-6789)
2. The first page of your most recent tax transcript* or tax return
   *A tax transcript is a summary of your recent tax filings that can be requested from the IRS (Internal Revenue Service). Each transcript includes important information for applying to new student loan repayment plans, such as your filing status, adjusted gross income (AGI), wages, and more. You can request a copy of a tax transcript in about 5 minutes by visiting the IRS website.

3. Logins to any loan servicers (e.g., Navient, Nelnet, Great Lakes)
   Your login information includes username or email, password, and anything else required to log into your student loan servicer’s website. Your student loan servicer website is the place you go to make payments on your student loans. This information will be used to import your student loan details into Savi during the account setup process.

What is an income-driven repayment plan (IDR)?

Any PSLF plan includes an income-driven repayment plan. These are repayment plans that take into account your income, student debt and personal situation, and may result in lower monthly payments. The plans that qualify you for PSLF include IBR, ICR, PAYE, and
The Standard repayment plan technically qualifies as well, but since this plan spans only 10 years, you wouldn’t have any balance left to forgive after 120 qualifying monthly payments.

Can I take advantage of Savi for student loans I’ve taken out for my children?

Student debt you’ve incurred on behalf of children (Parent PLUS loans) may qualify for relief. You may need to first consolidate them to Direct Consolidation loans—the Savi tool will help steer you in the right direction.

How likely is it that my employment qualifies for loan forgiveness?

To be eligible for forgiveness, you must be a full-time employee of an eligible public interest employer—that is, at a 501(c)(3) not-for-profit school, university or hospital; in government or approved governmental entities; or at a few other public interest organizations. The University of Colorado is considered a public service employer for the purpose of this program.

What if I am in an income-driven repayment plan working towards PSLF and my income changes?

You need to recertify your income annually, but if your income decreases at any point or you added a dependent (or even become pregnant), you can submit IDR paperwork to have your payment recalculated immediately to attempt to lower your monthly payments.

Do I need to decide now to sign up for the Savi fee-based service?

No. Once you're a registered user on Savi's website, you can try out the free tool first, and decide later if you’d like to take advantage of the optional administrative services available in the Savi Essential service. Each year you will be asked if you want to continue with the service and pay the annual fee or not.

Apply for PSLF on your own

Act by Oct. 26: Employee Services strongly recommends that you submit your PSLF forms no later than Wednesday, Oct. 26 to ensure all forms have CU authorization by the PLSF Limited Waiver deadline, given the volume of requests to be processed.

Key points: PSLF summary of changes

- For a limited time, until Oct. 31, 2022, you may receive credit for past periods of repayment on loans that would otherwise not qualify for PSLF.
- If you have FFEL, Perkins or other federal student loans, you'll need to consolidate your loans into a Direct Consolidation Loan to qualify for PSLF, both in general and under the waiver. Before consolidating, make sure to check to see if you work for a qualifying employer. Begin with the direct consolidation loan application [9].
- Past periods of repayment will now count regardless of whether you made a payment, made that payment on time, for the full amount due, on a qualifying repayment plan.
- Periods of deferment or forbearance, as well as periods of default, continue to not qualify.

For more information on qualifying, please visit the Federal Student Aid website [10].

Do I qualify?

To apply for the program, you need to meet the following criteria:

Full-Time Equivalent

You must work at least 30 hours a week. Please note, if you work more than one job at a qualifying employer, total hours should equal 30 or greater.

Loan Type

You are currently paying off William D. Ford Federal Direct Loans.

- To qualify for loan forgiveness, you may consolidate non-direct loans into a Federal Direct Consolidation Loan [11].
- Perkins Loans and Pell Grants do not qualify. If you consolidate your Direct Loans with these federal loans, you will no longer qualify.

Repayment Plan

You must enroll in either of the following repayment plans:

- Income-driven repayment plan
- 10-year standard repayment plan

What’s considered a qualifying payment?

According to the Federal Student Aid website, a qualifying monthly payment is a payment that you make:

- after October 1, 2007;
- under a qualifying repayment plan;
- for the full amount due as shown on your bill;
- no later than 15 days after your due date; and
- while you are employed full-time by a qualifying employer.

You can make qualifying monthly payments only during periods when you are required to make a payment. Therefore, you cannot make a qualifying monthly payment while your loans are in:

- an in-school status,
- the grace period,
- a deferment,
- a forbearance, or
- default.

Ready to sign up?

CU is only responsible for verifying employment. A signed form from CU does not mean your application has been approved, just that your employment has been verified.

Here’s what we need from you:

1. Review the Public Service Loan Forgiveness Form instructions and download the form.
2. Email PSLF@cu.edu to request employment verification.
3. CU Employee Services will complete Sections 3 and 4 and return the form to you.
4. Submit the completed form to the address listed in Section 7.

For specific information regarding duties including forbearance request forms, verifiers should contact the department liaison in which the employee resides.
Please note:

- UC Health is not the University of Colorado and will be a different contact. For past and present UC Health employees, please contact the UC Service Center.
- CU will only verify up to 40 hours per week and no less than 10 hours per week. If you have questions about the hours listed by Employee Services on the PSLF form, or believe they are in error, please reach out to your campus HR office.
