About the Office of Digital Education

The Office of Digital Education lives at the intersection of education and technology. As innovators, it is our goal to actively evolve the ways in which programs are designed, delivered and engaged with. We are passionate about improving access to education and connecting learners of all types with high-quality online degree programs and professional development opportunities.

A Transformational Time for Online Education

We are reimagining the ways a university supports online learning, faculty development and the implementation of technology. As a result, our work has the power to transform the way our world's learners interact with education as well as the way educators connect with students.
