Register for RAVE Alerts [1]

The University of Colorado System Administration uses the RAVE Mobile Alerts to communicate information about service maintenance events, service interruptions, 1800 Grant building emergencies, System Administration weather closures and more.

- CU System Administration:
  - Employees are automatically enrolled in email alerts but must opt in to receive alerts via text message, using the registration form below.
  - CU System Administration follows CU Denver's weather closure schedule. By signing up for texts, you'll receive CU Denver's weather closure and delay alerts, which also apply to CU System Administration.
  - IT maintenance and unplanned outage emails

  CU employees can sign up for IT maintenance and unplanned outage texts. The Maintenance Matters newsletter is automatically sent by email to all System staff. If you would like to be notified of IT outages, you need to complete the opt-in RAVE registration below. When you select Subscribe, another field will open. Select I want to receive email or text alerts regarding scheduled IT service maintenance and service interruptions. You then have the option to enter your mobile device number if you want to receive text alerts.

- CU campuses:
  - CU employees can sign up for emails and text messages about IT maintenance and unplanned service outages using the registration form below.

- Open Enrollment:
  - All benefits-eligible CU employees may sign up for text alerts regarding deadlines and information about selecting their benefits, using the registration form below.
  - Open Enrollment runs from in late April each year.
  - Note: If you’re currently enrolled in alerts for weather, closures, IT maintenance or IT system unplanned outages, you must also enroll separately in Open Enrollment alerts.

CU campus RAVE alerts
